IRIS GARDEN

Mrs. Ella W. Callis

HIGHWAY 71

ROUTE 5

ST. JOSEPH, MO.

Blossoms of Light

Oh! I have a tryst with Beauty
Now, at the break of Day;
For now is the Spring in glory
And verdant, the month of May.

I hasten to the garden
In holy hush of Morn;
To kneel before its Altar
That Iris now adorn.

What fragrance of the blossoms
As incense fills the air;
I kneel in adoration
To fairest of the fair.

The birds awaken carols
The dawning chorus swells;
It lends enchanting music
Where beauty ever dwells.

The eastern skies grow brighter
The shadows fade away;
The sun in glorious splendour
Sends forth a golden ray.

It slants across the garden
Across a thousand flowers;
Each arrowed sun-beam falling
Until they come in showers.

They touch each Iris blossom
Each blossom, fair and bright;
Until I cry in rapture
Thou art a Flower of Light.

This is no longer a garden
There is a temple here;
The Goddess of the Rainbow
On wings of light draws near.

These are her jewels of Beauty
These gems of light that flare;
These Iris blossoms, glowing
Upon the scented air.

O, Artist paint this picture
Ere it fades from sight;
O, Poet tell with rapture
The flaming of the Light.

Ah, no! 'tis not for mortal
To paint the joy of Spring;
And only celestial beings
Of heavenly themes may sing.

Iris Time is Here

Greetings

God spokel and from the arid scene
Sprang rich and verdant bowers;
Till all the earth was soft and green
He smiled, and there were flowers.

A GAIN I am happy to express my sincere thanks and appreciation to my friends and customers for their many nice orders and letters during the past season. I wish it were possible for me to write a personal note of "thank you" to all who have contributed to the success and pleasure of my flower garden.

It is indeed a pleasure to make your personal acquaintance and I hope you will surely come again in 1940 and also hope to meet many new friends and customers. Please come and make yourself right at home.

My Iris garden is conducted largely for the happiness that it brings my friends and an attempt to reveal in a simple, helpful way, something of the soul satisfying fascination and happiness. My collection represents one of the largest and finest.

Why Not Grow Iris for Happiness, Health and Wealth?

The Iris is such a numerous, and one of the most beautiful families of flowers on which the sun shines, continuing so long in bloom and with some varieties of indescribable beauty, and there is such a broad field for new varieties.

Will it not pay to feed your appreciative soul with a beauty which will for the time transcend the splendor of courts and the opulence of King's palaces?

Think of their fascinating and alluring loveliness. They are named from the Goddess Iris, the rainbow personified, who combined the beauty of heaven and earth in their matchless robes.

The beauty of earth is prophetic of what is in store for us. They give a hint of both worlds, presenting us with the fairest this earth affords and at the same time there is something prophetic about them of beauty not yet revealed.

This place is their paradise. They can put on their resplendent garments without rebuke of the storms. Here they unfold all their charms. While in bloom you hover over them and see that veining, interweaving and blending of tint and shading you cannot describe. That iridescent glow we imagine is the smile of the dazzling Goddess from which they are named. They hold and fascinate you and throw a spell over you. You go and come again. You linger and ponder in delightful reverie.

Gersdorff's New Iris

My garden will be graced with Gersdorff's new introduction this year for the first time and I believe will make one of the finest showings of his new introductions in the country and one that should attract the attention of Iris lovers generally.

List of New, Rare and Good Old Iris

TALL BEARDED and BEARDLESS IRIS
(Including Intermediate, Fall Blooming and Dwarfs.)

EARLY DWARF IRIS

The dwarf, or pumila, iris are the joy of the early garden—colorful, so sure to grow, so fragrant. Indispensable for the rock garden, very effective for the front of the border. For best results, they should be divided every two or three years, and replanted with a little light fertilizer. Dwarfs bloom approximately four weeks.

THE EARLY INTERMEDIATE IRIS

These early Iris, blooming between the pumilas and the tall bearded, are very necessary in our garden pictures. They furnish fine color masses, and combine very effectively with the Darwin tulips.

Hybridizers have recently been turning their attention to this group, and are producing large flowered varieties of fine form and color.

| THE BLACK DOUGLAS , (J. Sass, 1934). S. dark violet; F. blackish violet; blue beard tipped yellow; fine dark colored Iris..... | .50 |
| THE FIRST LADY , (Callis, 1940). Nothing gay or flashy about this flower, but for those who can appreciate subtle beauty in rather a bizarre contrast of bright rose red and white. Specially striking in the garden picture because of its great carrying power. Viewed closely it is a flower with snow white S. F. of the same color, penciled with rose red markings. Quite different than the usual haft markings of the heavily veined type. The individual flowers are of a medium to large size. Height 40 inches. An easy doer with nicely branched stems. Late bloomer; fragrance of a white rose; yellow and white beard | 25.00 |
| THE RED BRICK , (Weed, 1939). This fine outstanding Iris bloomed for the first time in my garden and it was a pet with all visitors. S. domed with strong red; suffusion throughout. | WILD ROSE , (Sturtevant, 1921). Dainty pale wild rose pink with white beards | .10 |
| WILLIAM ASBURY , (Callis, 1939). A very tall, gracious new violet pink, nearly a self; F. deeper and velvety; grows well and is an all around Iris. No garden should be without this outstanding long blooming Iris; colorful, good sized, well branched and of unusual substance. Comes into bloom just as intermediates are fading, bridging a gap before the fine late bearded Iris. Most unusual, prolific bloomer with many flowers to each stem; definitely worth while. 40 inches. Fragrant..... | 5.00 |
| WILL ROGERS , (Callis, 1940). A super Rameses with frilled S. and F.; the S. are mauve blend and the F. are plum color with pencilled brown at the base; the bloom is very large and fragrant; about 40 inches tall with an extra heavy gold beard; very late; good branching and several blossoms on a stalk. Honeysuckle fragrance | 25.00 |
| WILLIAM MOHR . 32 inches. A Pogo-Cyclus hybrid. A most remarkable Iris. Flowers of a pale lilac ground veined manganese violet..... | .25 |
| WINE GLORY , (Weed). Color combination is of red and purple, violet and some other shades. The color of the flower is difficult to describe as it is neither brilliant red nor purple | .50 |
| WINNESHIEK , (Egel., 1931). Large blooms and one of the best deep blue blacks we have seen..... | .50 |
| WINTER MOON , (Thole). A large cream white; orange chrome beard..... | .50 |
| WITCHING HOUR , (Washington, 1938). The arched and domed standards are buff yellow with faint flesh pink tinge. The falls are of the same tone and are dusted with burnished gold well down from the throat, giving the effect of powdered gold. Seven branched stalks and also the branches are branched. A luscious yellow flower of firm substance, and the most remarkable and fine branching that I have ever seen in an Iris. Very late blooming. 41 inches | 5.00 |
| WONDER CHILD , (Weed, 1933). S. red-violet; F. blue violet, suffused red, edges lighter. Light gold beard. Brown and white markings at base..... | .50 |

FALL BLOOMING IRIS

These new Iris will add beauty to your garden in the fall as well as in the spring and will produce two or more normal crops of Iris each year. What a wonderful surprise and joy some hot August afternoon or chilly October morning to find a new Iris bloom. They are all quite hardy; can be planted any time and require the same treatment as the Tall Bearded Iris. Interest in fall bloomers is increasing rapidly.

A Note on The Cultivation of Irises

The Iris is a boon for an immense region where other flowers cannot grow. They are the best drought resisters we have.

A long experience in replying to queries received from beginners in Iris culture enables me to deal, in the following notes, with most of the details of cultivating Irises regarding which beginners are often in doubt, or are, unfortunately, misled when taking advice from those who are not competent to give it. My notes apply particularly to the April-flowering and May-flowering Bearded Irises—the finest of all.

Irises grow easier and multiply faster than any other perennial. Plant them in a sunny location that has a good drainage. Irises are easy to cultivate and can be planted almost any time the ground is not frozen. Do not plant too deep. Plant so that the rhizome is just below the surface. Spread out the roots and water the hole. Then draw the earth around the rhizome and firm well. If the soil is heavy and the drainage poor a raised bed and application of hydrated lime is advisable. Never use manure or leaves as they are likely to cause rot. Varieties that increase rapidly should be divided and reset every third year. Irises seem to succeed over a greater range of territory than any other plant, withstanding the cold of Canada and the heat of Mexico. A light covering of straw put over the tender Irises after the ground freezes will help to carry your plants safely through the winter. Good bloom the following spring may be expected from well-matured plants which make a reasonable growth in the fall.

Irises are subject to very few diseases when grown under normal conditions, and only one of these—Iris Rhizome Rot (Pseudomonas Iridis)—is serious. This is a bacterial disease, and usually attacks the plant in early summer at the base of the stem, which collapses. The rhizome becomes slimy and rotten. Affected plants should be lifted immediately, the diseased portions of the rhizomes cut away and dusted with sulphur, powdered gypsum or plaster of paris. After the treatment the plants may be dried off for a few days and then replanted. Iris Leaf Spot (Heterosporium Gracile) is sometimes prevalent, and is caused by the attack of a fungus. It is recognized by the development of pale round spots on the leaves, which often spread rapidly until the whole surface is covered. The leaf dies, and the plants are consequently weakened. This disease is seldom troublesome on ground which has plenty of lime, and the best remedy is prevention—by giving the ground a good dressing of lime in the autumn. Badly diseased leaves should be removed and burnt. Iris Leaf Rust (Puccinia Iridis) is more uncommon and appears as small reddish rusty spots on the leaves, spreading rapidly. The remedy is spraying with a solution of potassium sulphide (liver of sulphur), one ounce dissolved in a gallon of water, every three days.

Another disease which occasionally makes its appearance is the so-called “fire” or “scorch,” the plants when attacked appearing as if they had been burnt. This trouble starts in the tips of the leaves and works down, the whole plant eventually becoming brown, and the roots withering and dying. Little or nothing is known as to the cause of this disease or its cure and it is under investigation at the present time. It is seldom very serious for as a rule only isolated plants are attacked, and it usually appears after a period of drought. A suggested remedy is to lift the plants and hang up by the roots to dry out in a hot, sunny place. After some weeks the rhizome usually recovers and starts to make fresh growth, when it can be replanted.

Borers seem to be important things that one has to contend with. Watch the foliage, beginning the first of June, and where you see a leaf that looks slimy or the edge notched, look out for the borer. With the aid of an old glove squeeze the leaf up and down between the thumb and finger. Slugs are often troublesome and do much harm by eating out the young eyes of the rhizome. Soil in which their presence is known should be dressed with plenty of sulphur.

and finally, remember

That my experience is always and in every way at your service.
